

Making Bristol fairer for people and the planet

Ten ideas to make Bristol better for people and the planet.

We have thought of ten ideas to make action on climate change fair.

Climate change is how our planet is getting dangerously hot.

It is getting hot because businesses are using dirty fuels like gas.

This makes problems like lots of bad weather.

Climate change is often extra bad for people who are treated unfairly.

For example people who don't have much money are more likely to live in houses that might flood.

There will be big changes in Bristol soon to try to stop climate change.

We want to make sure the changes are good for everyone.

People doing work to look after the planet are asked to use our ten ideas. That way their plans can be good for everyone.

The people who wrote these ideas know what it is like to be treated unfairly. For example one of them is Disabled. They also asked lots of people like them for ideas.

Idea One: People looking after the planet should talk to people who are treated unfairly and ask for help when making plans.

This will mean the needs of everyone will be thought about. Then the changes can be good and fair.

Idea two: New jobs are being made to look after the planet. The jobs should be fair and good for everyone. This includes Disabled people.

For example there should be training so that people have the skills to do the jobs.

Idea three: Groups that are treated unfairly should be helped to take action that is good for the planet and nature.

For example people could get help to work with their neighbours to look after local animals.

Idea four: People with lots of power should make big changes that let people like us make the small changes.

For example we can look after the planet by taking the bus. But it is easier to get the bus if the buses are good. For example everyone should have a bus stop close to their home.

Idea five: The costs and savings that come from looking after the planet should be shared fairly.

For example solar panels make energy from the sun. They save people money but they cost a lot to buy. Everyone could be helped to buy them.

Idea six: People should talk in a way that means everyone can understand.

For example people should make Easy Read booklets like this one about their work.

Idea seven: People should act in ways that are good for other countries. Climate change is often worse in other countries. (Climate change is how our planet is getting dangerously hot.)

For example sometimes our rubbish is sent to other countries to get rid of. Bristol should make sure not to do this.

Idea eight: Bristol should make sure everyone will be safe when climate change makes the weather worse. (Climate change is how our planet is getting dangerously hot.)

For example having lots of trees makes streets cooler in hot weather. Everyone should have trees on their street. Not just people with lots of money.

Idea nine: Streets and buildings will be changed to look after the planet. These changes should also make them good for everyone.

For example streets could be changed so that there are fewer cars and people can walk, wheel and play in them safely.

Idea ten: Businesses, charities and councils should be fairer.
For example banks should treat people better.

People should also make their own ideas and actions fairer.
Everyone can do more to care for other people.

We are asking every business, charity and council in the city to promise to use these ten ideas.
